Cyberwellness matters in School

Our curriculum aims to equip students with the knowledge and skills to harness the power of ICT for positive purposes, maintain a positive presence in cyberspace and be safe and responsible users of ICT.

Cyberwellness matters at Home

- Set ground rules and expectations for internet use.
- Be aware of what your child is doing online.
- Navigate the internet together to understand their usage.
- Model good digital habits for your child.
- Activate parental controls on your home devices.

A Winner at Learning in School

Paying attention in class and following instructions

Participating appropriately and clarifying doubts

Learning to be responsible for his/her own homework

A Winner at Learning at Home

A timetable at home for work to be done independently benefits your child greatly

Praising effort not 'inherited' ability & not comparing

Monitoring and spot checks keep your child on his/her toes and sends the right signals

Relationships with you & with their friends

Raising a Winner

You are still very important to your child and he/she may still be learning to read your moods

Do you spend time to interact with your child on a daily basis on matters beyond his/her basic needs?

Are you quick to jump in to solve his/her problems OR dismiss them as childish?

Raising a Winner

Is it alright for your child to make a mistake, learn from it and face the consequences?

When he/she does, it is an opportunity for you to teach him/her values and coping strategies

Is he/she allowed to solve his/her problems, with you as a guide, before you jump in to solve them?

When the milk is splattered all over the floor, and those little eyes are looking at you for your reaction, remember what really matters.

It takes 5 minutes to clean up spilled milk.
It takes much longer
to clean up a broken spirit.

Nurturing a Winner with Friends

Your child is still learning to make friends

Mistakes and misunderstandings
can happen and your response
makes the difference

Balance your approach – your child should have your listening ear and help
if needed but what do you listen out for and how do you help?

The goal of disciplining your child is actually to help them develop self-discipline, meaning to assume responsibility for their actions, including making amends and avoiding a repeat, whether the authority figure is present or not.

Sending the right signals about school

A grading of “Competent” for all subjects should be what your child should aim for.

A “Competent” grading is a sign that he/she is ready for P3.

Such a grading requires regular guidance, monitoring and cheering your child on.

Strong foundation in subjects paves
the way to tackle
more difficult
work in P3 – P6

Expectations from P3 – P6

- Science in P3
- More demanding components in all subjects
- CCA, Leadership opportunities, After-school support, Competitions

If parents want to give their children a gift, the best thing they can do is to teach them to love challenges, be intrigued by mistakes, enjoy effort, and keep on learning. That way, their children don't have to be slaves to praise. They will have a lifelong way to build and repair their own confidence.
